The gift of a letter or card can have a profound impact on a young person in prison who feels forgotten by the world, and perhaps, by God. The good news is, anyone can write letters or sign cards. It's an easy way to make a big difference in a youth's life.

Come learn about how we can send hope to a young person in need with HOPE Letters.

HOPE is Healing, Opportunity, Presence and Empowerment

Our Purpose: To give hope through regular correspondence to people who are incarcerated. Our letters will offer encouragement, non-judgmental companionship and a listening ear to a person imprisoned at state correctional institution.

Our Process: HOPE Letters will be both an individual and a group activity as we support one another in prayer, mentoring, and ministering. HOPE Letter teams of 4-8 people will come together in a structured program of letter writing twice a month. We will write letters to “inside mentees” who are separated from their local community and who are seeking a better future for themselves. Selected letter recipients will be chosen based on specific criteria for participation. It is our hope that a new, healthy relationship will take root and grow before the mentee returns to the community so that “this time inside” will be their last time.

Our Preparation: HOPE Letter teams of 4-8 people will be trained in the dos and don'ts of corresponding with persons in prison, how to comply with the appropriate correctional agency's policies, and best practices for mentoring through the mail. In addition, interested participants will receive equipping for unique challenges specific to justice-involved persons.

Our Partners: HOPE Letters, originally developed at Grace UMC (Dayton), is an approved program between several UMC groups, All In Community, and the Ohio Department of Rehabilitation and Corrections. A pilot program is currently underway with the Department of Youth Services. Members of other churches are invited to join this project. You do not need to be a United Methodist. The more of us who come together for this challenge, the more people in prison we can impact for life change.

Attend a HOPE Letters Information & Training Sessions to learn more. Your presence does not equal your commitment to anything other than learning what this ministry is all about. At the end of our time, you will have the choice to join/form a team, consider and pray on it further, or pass on participation.

Hope is faith holding out its hand in the dark.
