

You may have experienced sexual misconduct if:

- You feel uncomfortable and confused after an improper interaction with a ministerial leader even if you are initially flattered.
- You are receiving inappropriate personal gifts from the ministerial leader.
- You are receiving counseling and your sessions are focused more on meeting the ministerial leader's needs and talking more about his or her problems than yours.
- The ministerial leader invites you out for intimate, social occasions.
- The ministerial leader touches you in a way that you find confusing, uncomfortable, or upsetting.
- The ministerial leader uses theological rationale for questionable conduct. For example: "It is God's will for us to be together."

If you feel you have experienced an act of sexual misconduct:

- Pay attention to your feelings. Did the situation make you feel uncomfortable?
- Say "NO" to the perpetrator. Be direct and tell him or her to "STOP" the behavior.
- Stay safe. Leave the situation.
- Remember...you are not to blame, even if you agreed to the action in the beginning.
- Share your feelings of hurt, betrayal, confusion, anxiety, or fear with someone you trust.
- Keep a record of the dates, times, places, and witnesses of the incidents. Save emails, letters, cards, voicemail messages, receipts, or notes.
- Remember that you may not be the only person to whom this has happened.
- Your action may help prevent another occurrence of sexual or professional misconduct to you or someone else.

What is Sexual Misconduct?

Sexual misconduct in the church occurs when a person in a church leadership role, either by position or perception (pastor, retired pastor, staff member, youth leader, unpaid volunteer, etc) participate in inappropriate behavior.

Including, but not limited to: sexual contact, sexual language, or sexual behavior. It can include actions such as: child, youth or adult sexual abuse, harassment, rape, sexual assault, sexualized verbal comments or visuals, unwelcome touching of body, hair, or clothing, unwelcome advances, pressing up against your body, blocking movements, inappropriate hugging or kissing, tickling, playful aggression, rubbing oneself in the presence on another, stalking, and sexual intercourse. Inappropriate sexual innuendos, flirtations, jokes, or touching are unacceptable even when the offender states they were “Just kidding” or “Didn’t mean any harm”.

This behavior is unacceptable and such conduct will not be tolerated. The relationship among the clergy, church and an individual is one of covenant. When sexual misconduct occurs, this sacred covenant has been broken. Churches as well as individuals may experience brokenness and grief.

Making A Report:

First Steps

Making the initial contact from the list below sets things in motion. You will be guided through this process—you do not have to do this alone.

Contact any of the following:

- If the perpetrator is not the pastor, you may contact the pastor
- The Staff Parish Relations Committee chair. Contact information for this person can be found by calling your church office.
- Your District Superintendent. If you do not know who that is, visit www.westohioumc.org or call 1-800-437-0028
- The Assistant to the Bishop, 1-800-437-0028

A few Things to Know and Remember

- Sexual abuse is not limited to physical contact. Sexually inappropriate language and suggestive behavior also constitutes sexual misconduct.
- Churches are not immune to misconduct. They are sacred places. Churches are filled with and led by fallible humans. Do not dismiss concerns because of a misunderstanding that these things do not happen in churches.
- Misconduct does not simply go away. In order for a congregation to move past these things, they must be dealt with openly and honestly. Reporting misconduct is essential for correction and healing to occur.

Reporting Sexual Misconduct

The effects of abuses of power in the form of sexual misconduct are devastating to the point that the spiritual life of some victims and survivors suffers greatly, and many leave the church completely. These acts of misconduct are not only an act against one person, but an act against families: fellow ministry professionals, members in the local congregation, the church at large, and God.

Legitimate complaints are encouraged and will be taken seriously. Retaliation against anyone who reports an act of ministerial misconduct in good faith will not be tolerated and will be handled through appropriate disciplinary action. However, individuals who make false, frivolous, or malicious complaints will be held accountable.

- If a person is making a complaint, listen to them in a non-defensive way. If it is in your power to do so, make sure you remove the victim or perpetrator from further contact. Then make one of the contacts in the box on the left.
- If you are suspicious that sexual misconduct may be occurring but no one has come forward, make one of the contacts in the box on the left.
- If you have observed any of the afore mentioned, report it to one of the contacts listed under First Steps
- Document dates, times, and places of the offenses. Include the nature of the exploitation. This information will be requested of you, so it will be good to have it readily accessible.
- The West Ohio Conference has a response team who are trained in responding to the betrayal of boundaries and the violation of sacred trust.
